

Our Being Is Becoming

An Introduction to Thinking Dialectically

an online course with the Institute for Social Ecology

Instructor: Mason Herson-Hord

Contact: mhersonhord@gmail.com

Course Dates: Start date September 7, runs on Sundays at 3pm Eastern time for six weeks. September 21 skipped, end date October 19.

Course Description:

What is dialectics? Do we need to study it just because Marx, Lenin, and Bookchin did? What does it have to do with understanding the world we actually live in?

We will take on these questions and more through this six-week introduction. Dialectical philosophy is the conceptual foundation of social ecology and Marxism alike, without which neither tradition can be properly understood. More than that, however, we make the case that dialectical thinking is an indispensable tool for understanding reality more clearly. In the most basic sense, dialectics is a philosophy of change, and it is of particular importance for those who seek to change reality: for revolutionaries.

This course will not be a slog through Hegel or dense philosophical esoterica. While we are confident that all students of these ideas will get something out of this course, it is first and foremost aimed at beginners with no prior philosophical training, with the primary goal of establishing clear-headed, practical understanding for applied use.

This course is also recommended as a prerequisite for The Philosophy and Politics of Social Ecology and Frankfurt School Critical Theory.

We will establish a foundation of understanding of dialectical philosophy over six weeks through the following sessions: an introduction to what dialectical reasoning is and why it is useful, an overview of dialectical thought across a variety of premodern philosophical traditions (Hellenistic, Indian, Chinese, and Nahua), a legible breakdown of Hegel's main ideas we need to grasp, dialectics applied to the study of history, dialectics applied to the study of nature, and lastly, what dialectics means for the pursuit of truth through deliberation and democracy. Each week will be accompanied by readings and multimedia materials. The syllabus also includes supplemental readings each week for those who want to go deeper.

This course is open to all. As with all ISE courses, no one will be turned away for lack of funds.

Syllabus

Week 1 - September 7, 2025

Introduction: Breaking with Category Thinking

- “Dialectics,” chapter 2 from Socialism: Utopian and Scientific by Friedrich Engels (in Anti-Duhring, 1878)
- “Zapatismo and Pluriversal Ontology,” talk by Linda Quiquívix at the Institute for Social Ecology's 2023 summer intensive course (video)

- “The Dangers of Category Thinking” by Bart de Langhe and Philip Fernbach in the Harvard Business Review

Week 2 - September 14, 2025

Ancient Philosophical Roots

- “Infinity and Beyond: Anaximander and Anaximenes” from The History of Philosophy without Any Gaps with Peter Adamson (podcast, episode 2)
- “Old Man River: Heraclitus” from The History of Philosophy without Any Gaps with Peter Adamson (podcast, episode 5)
- Selection from the Tao Te Ching by Laotzi (several translations)
- “The Tao of Dialectic” by Antonio Wolf, Epoché Magazine

Further readings (optional):

- “Teotl” (Chapter 1) and “Agonistic Inamic Unity” (Chapter 3) from Aztec Philosophy: Understanding a World in Motion by James Maffie
- Selections from Cracking the Walnut: Understanding the Dialectics of Nagarjuna by Thich Nhat Hanh
- Selections from The Shape of Ancient Thought: Comparative Studies in Greek and Indian Philosophies by Thomas McEvilley

Week 3 - September 28, 2025

Making Heads and Tails of Hegel

- “The Dialectical Method” by J.N. Findlay, from Hegel: A Re-examination

Further readings (optional):

- Selection from Notes on Dialectics by C.L.R. James
- Selection from Encyclopedia Logic by G.W.F. Hegel
- “The Dialectical Method” by Ernst Bloch

Week 4 - October 5, 2025

Dialectic as Ontology: History

- “Hegel: Philosophy of World History and Spirit” by Ellie Anderson (video)
- “Marx 101: Key Concepts of Dialectical Materialism” by Red Plateaus (video)

- Karl Marx, “Preface” from A Contribution to the Critique of Political Economy (1859)
- Karl Marx, “Idealism and Materialism” from The German Ideology (1845)
- Karl Marx, “Afterword to the Second German Edition” from Capital, Volume I (1873)

Further readings (optional):

- Introduction to Capital, Volume 1 by Ernest Mandel
- “Marx, Anarchism, and the Revolution of Everyday Life” by M. Sanchez, Negation Mag.
- “Dialectics and Revolution,” chapter 6 from Revolution and Evolution in the Twentieth Century by James and Grace Lee Boggs
- Selection from Introduction to the Philosophy of History by G.W.F. Hegel

Week 5 - October 12, 2025

Dialectic as Ontology: Nature

- Selections from The Philosophy of Social Ecology, by Murray Bookchin (“Introduction: A Philosophical Naturalism” and “Ecologizing the Dialectic” in Chapter 3, “Thinking Ecologically: A Dialectical Approach”)
- Selection from The Dialectics of Nature by Friedrich Engels
- Selection from The Dialectical Biologist by Richard Levins and Richard Lewontin
- “Meteorisations: Reading Amílcar Cabral’s Agronomy of Liberation” by Filipa César

Further readings (optional):

- “Peter Kropotkin and Social Ecology: Between Biology and Revolution” by Jelena H. Pantel, Selva Varengo and Federico Venturini
- “Second Nature Beyond the Human” by Mason Herson-Hord
- “Dialectical Materialism and the Objectification of Labor” by Eric Jacobson
- “Engels’ Dialectics of Nature in the Anthropocene” by John Bellamy Foster
- “Dialectical Ecology: The origins of dialectical ecology” by John Clark, from The Routledge Handbook on Ecosocialism (chapter 12)
- “The Poetics of Ecology: A conversation with Andreas Weber,” Hannah Close, The Dark Mountain Project

Week 6 - October 19, 2025

Truth Is an Eternal Conversation: Dialectic as Social Method

- Gorgias by Plato, translated by Benjamin Jowett
- “On Practice: “On the Relation Between Knowledge and Practice, Between Knowing and Doing” (1937) and “Where Do Correct Ideas Come From?” (1963) by Mao Zedong
- “The Mass Line: What It Is and How to Use It” from Liberation Road
- Selection from The Pedagogy of the Oppressed by Paulo Freire
- “What Time Is It on the Clock of the World?” by Grace Lee Boggs
- Excerpted response to Conversations in Maine: A New Edition with Grace Lee Boggs, James Boggs, Lyman Paine, and Freddy Paine

Further readings (optional):

- “Structures, habitus, power: basis for a theory of symbolic power,” chapter 4 from Outline of a Theory of Practice by Pierre Bourdieu
- Selection from Hegel Contra Sociology by Gillian Rose
- “Words for Our Present Reality” by the Strange Matters editorial collective
- “Principles of the Philosophy of Progress” (selections) by Pierre-Joseph Proudhon